

That Team is a collaboration of 4 hardworking individuals coming together to achieve the common goal of completing this assignment. Throughout this assessment we have compared industry data and relevancy in the IT industry, developed a better understanding of the day to day workings of an IT professional, compared 4 different upcoming technologies and developed an outstanding project idea. Unfortunately we did not use Github as our main means of communication and merely as a means for hosting our website, however, we have included an audit trail from Microsoft Teams which perfectly reflects our groups work and each individuals input.
